FOUNDERS' DAY DINNER TONIGHT

Andover will honor 141 employees tonight at 6:30 p.m. at Andover Country Club, observing the first annual Founders' Day.

Fewer than 15 of those eligible to attend (with 10 or more years service) will be absent, and a total crowd in excess of 350 is anticipated.

Pond Opening In Late June

Pomp's Pond will be open for the recreation season on June 29 and town-operated playgrounds will open July 5, Recreation Director Leslie Bartow said this week.

Bartow said orientation for playground personnel will be held the week of June 28.

Among the director's plans for the summer is one for student operated recreation "concessions". Bartow has held initial talks with high school students who are discussing banding together in a Junior Achievement - type organization to sell recreation services for a minimum fee.

A nursery school program, baton twirling classes and some craft courses for which the town cannot supply funds from its budget could be provided in this way, serving the dual purpose of occupying high school students interested in some summertime earning.

Also envisioned as a recreation department project is a summer employment bureau for young people which could serve as a clearinghouse for lawn mowing, window washing etc. jobs.

The School Committee swallowed the news Tuesday that it probably will not get its new high school before September, 1967, and fired back with an immediate request that Town Manager Richard Bowen appoint a building committee to start work on a new elementary school.

In a meeting that moved from one hot topic to another, the school policy makers ticked off the following:

• They voted 3-2 to ask for the building committee after members expressed annoyance with the fact that they have not been notified of any site acquisition. Manager

CO-OP Refunds Finance Education

The CASH distributed by the CO-OP last month, as refunds on last year's purchases of CO-OP groceries, is sometimes put to interesting uses. The way the bonanza is employed also sheds an interesting light on the character of our shoppers.

The Robert Deyermonds of Salem st., Andover, are a case in point. Faced with the decision of how best to employ their CASH windfall, they made a natural but laudable choice.

Their daughter Karen (AHS '64) is a student at Bryant College in Providence. The cost of a college education being what it is these days, the Deyermonds wisely decided to put their cooperatively earned refunds toward the cost of their daughter's college education. It is hard to think of a more worthy use and the CO-OP is delighted to have contributed to so noble a cause.

That's the way it is with CASH. It gives to the possessor complete freedom of choice as to how it may be spent . . . or saved. And next year's refunds are being accumulated every day as local citizens shop for their groceries cooperatively.

All this . . . and education, too

MR. FOUNDERS' DAY, chairman William Rhoads proves he can cook a first rate dinner as well as organize one. (Cole)

Imported New Englander Makes Founders' Day Tick

The manager and the Board of Selectmen formulated the idea of a Founders' Day, the Chamber of Commerce gave it a financial push, but Chairman William Rhoads provided the Go Power.

And who is Billy Rhoads? A retired railroader, a transplanted Pennsylvanian, an ebullient personality whose persuasiveness has opened doors for every sort of worthy cause from the Salvation army to the Republican Party. Rhoads has been in Andover since 1954. He came here (because he has a daughter in town) after 48 years with the Reading (Railroad) Co., retiring as its financial vice president when he hit 65. And under his arm he carried a scrapbook filled with accolades for his professional and civic accomplishments.

He was, and is, a railroad history buff, he and his relatives having had a hand in shaping a fair share of it. The Rhoads family was wedded to railroading and its members served a sum total of nearly 400 years with the Reading. William started with the com-

He kept a steady pace through various positions in various executive offices until in 1949 he was elected a vice president, having already accumulated the titles of treasurer and secretary.

In the past ten years the poppy Pennsylvanian has tucked a second community service career under his belt. He was with Andover's Industrial and Development Commission in its infancy and left this assignment to become secretary of the Finance Committee. He isn't even a member of the Chamber of Commerce, but he has used his organizational talents in its behalf when asked. Similarly he has served the Boys Club, the YMCA, Christ Church etc. etc. etc.

Bill Rhoads settled Andover more than 300 years too late, but just the same, he operates like a first rate Founding Father.

COMMITTEE WANTS IMMEDIATE ACTION

Richard Bowen said later, "I'm way ahead of you."

He explained that he is considering working again with plans used for Sanborn School, is already checking into the possibility of Federal Advanced Public Works aid for the project, and is certain that an announcement of site acquisition is imminent.

• They asked that notes be sent home to parents of ninth and tenth graders mentioning the possibility of Spanish and German being available in the fall. Despite a school survey, one member said youngsters are being programmed for next year without realizing they may have this choice.

• They tangled with Supt. Edward I. Erickson over a report from Curriculum Coordinator Lauriston Ward prepared for the committee. Erickson did not favor Ward's presentation of the report until he had checked over it with him. The committee agreed to a delay with the understanding that it is to get the unabridged report at a later special curriculum meeting.

• They heard a complaint from a mother who says a petition is being formulated requesting a return to the free Wednesday afternoon schedule that permitted teachers to give students needing extra help special attention. She expressed the belief that changes in the curriculum were benefiting the average to bright student at the expense of other children.

DASA Shares Consolidated

The Board of Directors of Andover-based DASA Corp. has voted to consolidate and reduce the capital stock of the corporation by issuing one new share in exchange for each five shares presently outstanding.

DASA President Richard S. Leghorn said the action was taken at the regular April meeting of the Board. The "reverse split" will reduce the number of shares outstanding from 7,247,528 to 1,449,505. The directors also voted to recommend shareholder approval for an increase in the resulting number of authorized shares from 1.6 million to 3 million, Leghorn said.

Both actions must be approved by DASA shareholders at their next annual meeting, to be held June 15 in Andover, and by the California commissioner of corporations (DASA is a California corporation).

Immeasurable Worth

Sop — that is what some consider gold watches, plaques and service pins.

And sop they are if they come as belated substitutes for the regular flow of commendation and compensation that faithful employees deserve for constancy.

Such rewards can also be an expression of inadequacy, for few corporations or municipalities would have enough money in their coffers to pay for loyalty and devotion, even if these were commodities that could be given a monetary value.

It is with this sense of inadequacy that Andover residents should view the proceedings tonight at the first annual Founders' Day observance, devoted to honoring 141 who have served this community for more than 10 years.

Commenting upon the quality of public servants per se, a newcomer to this town said some months ago, "Andover doesn't realize how lucky it is!" That newcomer was Manager Richard Bowen who knows from hard experience that it would be difficult to match what we have been able to take for granted in our town employees — a high level of integrity.

It is in appreciation of this and other virtues that we award service pins tonight.

The pins will have meaning and can be worn with pride if, as townspeople, we make it obvious in our dealings with town employees that we recognize and appreciate their worth.

The Chamber, And Friend

It was doubtful the manager knew just how big a bite he was asking the Andover Chamber of Commerce to chew when he suggested the business and professional men's organization pick up the tab for town employees (and their spouses) being honored at tonight's Founders Day dinner.

A thorough check of the records determined that 140, having worked for the town ten or more years, qualify as guests.

The Chamber got C. of C. Friend William Rhoads on the job, and backed him up with contributions to put the project in the black well ahead of time.

To them goes credit for the fact that the town is able to thank its personnel with style, over a hearty chunk of beef instead of a tea cake.

As we pass around the commendations, let us serve a hearty portion to the Chamber and its loyal friend Billy Rhoads.

If You Have It . . .

Sometimes it seems that we are afloat in a sea of worthy causes: we scarcely have time to respond to one before another comes along.

But we can't back off now, for the YM and YWCA are conducting a $1 million fund drive to expand facilities that supply year-round recreation and educational opportunities to any in Greater Lawrence interested in partaking.

Some 650 Andover men, women and young people are among the thousands who have helped to crowd the shared YM swimming pool, and swell overall enrollment for "Y" activities beyond the capacity of the two buildings. "Y" officials believe that unmet demands indicate even more Andover people want to get in on the fun.

The million dollars will be equally shared by the two organizations to add pools, gyms, an auditorium, a teen center, a health club etc. etc. It makes sense for the communities benefiting to share the cost of providing them.

If you have it to give, give some of it to the YMCA-YWCA.

Elsewhere

"Night Journey," the Martha Graham ballet that has won two film festival awards, will be seen on Channel 2 Friday, May 14 at 8:30 p.m. (repeat, May 16, 8 p.m.) Also on May 14, 8 p.m.: Birgit Nilsson in Beethoven's opera "Fidelio."

The spring meeting of the Massachusetts Art Education Assoc. will be held on Saturday at Smith College in Northampton. The principal meeting in the morning will feature Oliver W. Larkin, Professor Emeritus of Arts at Smith College and author of the Pulitzer Prize winning book "Art and Life in America". He will address the group on "Thoughts on the Importance of Art in Education." The principal meeting of the afternoon session will feature a visual presentation "Confrontation, Search and Discovery" by the Chairman of the Art Department at Jersey City State College, Jersey City, New Jersey, Dr. Ernest Ziegfeld.

BAND PARENTS PLAN PICNIC

The Andover Band Parents Club will hold its annual picnic and seniors Awards Day May 31 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Log Cabin in the Phillips Academy bird sanctuary.

All band parents are invited and may make reservations with Mrs. Herman Koester, 142 Lovejoy Rd. or Mrs. Myles Reilly, 7 Dunbarton st. until May 24.

- Great Books discussion, 7:30 p.m. Final program.

Travel Talk

The second of two spring travel talks in the Memorial Hall at the library is scheduled for tomorrow at 8 p.m. when Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Bradley will show slides of their 13 week trip last summer. With their grown children they toured 18 countries and gathered impressions which they will discuss following slides they made. The Bradleys have titled their program, "Europe 1964 - Highlights and Sidelights." The public is invited, no charge.

Littlest Listeners

The final programs for the pre-schoolers are being held at Ballardvale branch on May 6th and in the Children's room next Tuesday, May 11th. Mrs. William MacCausland's group as usual will gather at the branch at 10 a.m. to find Spring in the air. While libraries around the nation customarily put on story, game, and music programs for boys and girls who have not as yet reached the age for school, the Ballardvale group is something out of the ordinary. For one thing younger members of the family are sometimes in attendance and for another, many of the mothers stay and make the affair a real family gathering. Following the final program, Mrs. MacCausland will be glad to register candidates for next season's Littlest Listeners.

The last meeting of the Teddy Bears will occur May 11 at 10 a.m. in the Children's Room. Boys and girls in the four-to-five year age group will hear some old favorites and something new, too. It is not too early for parents who would like to have their children join next year's Littlest Listeners to enroll them by speaking to Miss Russell in the Children's Room. Groups at Memorial Hall and at Ballardvale branch are limited to a size appropriate to the facilities. Early registration, therefore, will assure a place for your boy or girl of pre-school age when programs are resumed next fall.

Evening With Huck

When the Great Books discussion group meets Tuesday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. Mark Twain's HUCKLEBERRY FINN will be the topic. This will be the final meeting of the current season. The group recesses during the summer.

The discussion leaders agree that HUCKLEBERRY FINN is a masterpiece memorable for its humor. But the group will discuss questions that the author raises which are meaningful for today. It should be quite a program as they wrestle with the implications of superstition in the story, with commentary on "civilization" - why is Huck so averse to being "civilized?" Do all boys, and some men, want to escape from civilization?

Then there are moral problems raised by Twain - why is Huck disturbed about helping Jim escape? Is there a right and a wrong point of view in connection with the attempted lynching? Is the average man a coward? What effect on him has membership in a mob? Before the evening is over, members will have decided some of the things Mark Twain was saying for our time as well as for his own. This is a good meeting to attend and if you have been meaning to join the Great Books group, why not start with the program next Tuesday?

Special Displays

The response to the National Library Week book displays in the Main reading room led to the decision to prolong them. Any book in the displays may be taken home without the necessity of waiting for the end of an exhibition period. Travel books, new spring titles, the latest in science, and books for young adults selected for their particular interests and enjoyment, are on view for browsing and borrowing.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago — May, 1890

One of the most secure bank vaults ever built is now being completed in the rooms of the Andover National Bank by the Damon Safe and Iron Works Co. The vault measures 8 ft. high, 7 ft. wide, and 9 ft. deep.

The annual election of officers of the J. P. Bradlee No. 2 Steamer Co. was held Monday. The old board of officers consisted of E.H. Shattuck, foreman; J.W. Murray, assistant; C. H. Thwing, clerk. All were re-elected.

Lawrence is reaping the harvest in the liquor business, on account of no license in Lowell and Haverhill, especially the latter. Last Saturday night 275 round trip tickets to Lawrence were sold in Haverhill and the scenes on the theatre train beggars description.

The firemen received their yearly pay on town pay-day last Monday.

50 Years Ago — May, 1915

After serving in the capacity of Chief of the Andover Fire Department for twenty-seven years, Lewis T. Hardy has resigned that office, and his duties will be attended to by the Board of Engineers until his successor is chosen. He has been with the force twenty-nine years and during that time he has seen many improvements in the efficiency of the department. From the days of the old hand tub and hose reel the apparatus has been modernized and brought up-to-date until now it is equipped as well if not better than any town in the state.

A complaint comes to the Townsman of the height of awnings. It ought not be necessary to send such a complaint to the local newspaper or even to be obliged to make the complaint, with the number of police officers who make their home on Main St. The law fixes the height of awnings in most places, and if there isn't an ordinance in Andover to take care of it, there certainly ought to be. Certainly there ought to be some rule made that should protect the ordinary pedestrian's height, even if we can't at all times control such fixtures in a way to meet the requirements of the idiosyncrasies of female millinery.

25 Years Ago — May, 1940

Six Andover boys will leave this afternoon for Washington and the World's Fair and the ninth annual school safety patrol parade and convention in the capital city. They are: Robert Waugh, Stewart Fraser, William Christie, Alex Ness, Edwin Stevens and James O'Brien.

The Andover post office ranked fifth in the state last year in per capita sale of United States Savings bonds.

A new grade school teacher, a cadet teacher and a supervisor of oral hygiene were elected at the School Committee meeting Tuesday. Miss Katherine Sweeney of High St., who has been teaching in Presque Isle, Me. for the past three years will teach at north school when it reopens in the fall. Miss Helen Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hardy of Chestnut St. was named a cadet at Stowe School and Miss Donna de Rochemont will take over the oral hygiene position.

Rev. Frederick B. Noss will be a delegate at the meeting of the National Council of Churches at Berkeley, Calif. in August.

10 Years Ago — May, 1955

A clear-cut decision is expected Friday night by the board of public works regarding coverage of its meetings by representatives of the press. Although the matter has been debated several times, the board so far has only allowed a reporter to cover sessions devoted to engineering discussions in relation to Rogers brook drainage.

Mary Jane Dumont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dumont of Tewksbury St. will be May Queen in the annual May procession of St. Augustine's School May 15. Her attendants will be Linda Delaney, Carol D'Amore, Diane LaRochelle and Ann White.

Salk polio vaccine will be given to 496 public school pupils of the 517 eligible. Twenty-one parents have returned negative consent forms.

Shawsheen's oldest man is 93-year-old Robert Taylor. He was born in Johnston, Scotland.

Building Inspector Ralph A. Coleman has issued permits for new construction and additions totalling $542,275 during April.

Selectman J. Everett Collins last week was appointed to the board of review of the State Division of Employment Security at an annual salary of $8,000. The appointment was made by Gov. Christian A. Herter.

Young Volunteers Sought By State Service Corps

The Commonwealth Service Corps wants 435 high school and college volunteers to work this summer in state-wide programs essentially designed to fight poverty and its handicapping results.

This state agency, the domestic peace corps of Massachusetts is undertaking a concentrated recruitment drive for volunteers to work for eight weeks - July 6 through August 27 - in programs planned to reach urban and rural people, not only the innercore populations of large cities but summer migrant workers in need of help in farm areas.

Summer volunteers will work primarily with deprived young people in programs of recreation, remedial education and social service which have been jointly planned by the state agency and a variety of public and private agencies throughout Massachusetts.

Camp programs at Fernald State School, Waverly, and Dever State School, Taunton, will attempt new methods in understanding and educating mentally-retarded youngsters using high school and college Service Corps volunteers in important roles.

Service Corps volunteers of college age will help a federally-financed education and social service program for primarily non-English-speaking migrant workers in farm areas of Amherst, Barnstable, Tewksbury, Groton-Ayre and Boston.

Service Corps representatives are now visiting campuses to recruit 200 college students who will attend a live-in-training session at Boston University, June 28-July 1, to prepare them for their summer assignments. Both high school and college applicants are being recruited at Commonwealth Service Corps headquarters, 11 School St.

Typical of programs for the Boston area are:

Four college men and four college women volunteers will work with youngsters between the ages of five and 13 in a recreation-learning program planned in cooperation with the United South End Settlements.

Twenty high school volunteers will work as supervisors in "outpost playgrounds" in the Highland Park section of Roxbury with children 5 to 11 who would not otherwise participate in a summer program.

Ten college volunteers will provide remedial reading programs for elementary-school-children in the Highland Park area under professional supervision.

Eighty volunteers, 40 from the high school age group and 40 from college, will work in the Roxbury Work and Study Program. They will do outside painting on selected houses in the Washington Park section of Roxbury, engage in tutorial and recreational projects with youth in the neighborhood. One of the primary objectives of this project is to involve the entire neighborhood in a neighborhood renewal project.

Tetanus could be almost totally prevented if every person maintained active immunity through periodic boosters of vaccine, the Essex North District Medical Society reports.

Books To Return?

On a check of books made this week, it was found borrowers have taken 6,082 volumes from the adult department and 3,700 from the children's room. So it is likely that the reader of this column will be returning something soon.

If you have a book to return to Memorial Hall you may bring it into the library during open hours from 10 to 6 on Saturdays, and from 10 to 9 on weekdays. Or you may use the Book Return Box out on the curb in front of the library. That is, you may safely use the return box unless it is already full! It is never safe to put books on top of the box nor the sidewalk under it as, rarely, someone has done. You are financially responsible for books you borrow and so it is better, in case you find the box full, to return books to the library desk. Provision is made for those times when the library is closed - then you can slip books into the slot in the front door. The street Return Box is being emptied three times a day, but please, if you find it full, make the extra effort to return books in person or through the door slot. They do stray if left on the street or atop the box - one was hauled out of the sewer recently when it was spring cleaned.

Juvenile angler's proved too canny Saturday for 125 of the 300 brook trout dumped in Hussey's Pond by the Andover Sportsman's Club Inc. for its annual Fishing Derby. Two boys went home with the five-fish limit, but top honors for the day went to Paul Collins, of 131 Elm St. who pulled out one of the few 14 1/4 inchers in the pond. His prize: a trophy.

Health Board Awaits Reports

The Andover Board of Health has decided to take a "wait and see" approach to the question of public measles clinics.

The Board will reserve an opinion on whether or not it should schedule mass distribution of the vaccine here until reports are in from clinics already held. What the local health officials want to know, said Mrs. Elizabeth Nadeau, public health director, is the extent (if any) to which side effects are registered.

At a later date the state may make a measles vaccine available to communities free of charge. As it stands now, Mrs. Nadeau said, it would cost the town $2 per shot which makes the expense of a clinic a significant factor. The board has also been told that the state has word of an even more effective vaccine than the one currently available which will soon be adequately researched and released.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Nadeau points out, the measles season for this year is over, which allows time for full consideration. Though the board had already considered the vaccine question, public discussion of clinics was initiated by Dr. Louis Galblatt's suggestion that the School Committee look into the desirability of handling inoculations through the school system.

The School Committee now has taken the official position the measles subject is a public health matter, one for town health officials to handle.

Hussey's is closed to adults, but fathers and friends offered "professional" advice Saturday given here (bottom right) by Leo Cronin to his nephew, Kevin, the six-year-old son of Selectman Paul W. Cronin.

There was plenty of action as would-be-prize winners started gathering soon after dawn to crowd (top right) the banks and dam at the Poor St. pond. A total of 277 youngsters signed in with club officials.

of the river's mouth.

The Upper Locks boys believed in sound business principles and so there was no fish ladder on their dam. The Atlantic salmon is a great leaper, but the highest authenticated vertical leap the fish ever made at a falls was 11 feet and four inches. So the dam wiped out a resource once so plentiful that commercial fishermen along the Connecticut used to force a customer to take a specified percentage of salmon to become eligible to buy shad.

A similar fate befell the Atlantic salmon in the Merrimack River. Bigelow and Schroeder reported that in 1790, fishermen using a 90-yard seine near Amesbury took 60 to 100 salmon daily. Completion of a dam at Lawrence in 1847 blocked the Merrimack.

Pollution Kills Fish Verbage Would Protect

Atlantic salmon must abound in the Connecticut River!

At least, this kind of rivers would be common in the Connecticut if legal protection could assure their survival.

For, on Page Seven of the small brochure that every angler in Massachusetts received with the 1965 fishing license there appears this statement:

"Salmon - protected in the Connecticut River."

Unfortunately, salmon - and other fish - swim not through legal verbage but through clean water. For reasons other than pollution, there has not been a salmon run in the Connecticut River in 179 years.

Yet, in 1965, the law still reads "protected in the Connecticut River." May Providence spare us such protection!

The plight of the Atlantic salmon illustrates why many conservation organizations have broadened their outlook in recent decades. If the law had forbidden dams more than six feet high, or prescribed fish ladders. And if the law had effectively banned the dumping of pollutants into the Connecticut River. If these things had been done - and the status of Atlantic salmon never even mentioned in the laws - then we might today have Atlantic salmon in the river. Words - even the best intentioned words - have little effect upon insuring the survival of any wildlife. That is, unless those words protect the habitat that wildlife requires.

For those whose late winter fly-tying put them behind in their reading: The Rev. David Dudley Field lamented in 1819 that the Atlantic salmon virtually had disappeared from the Connecticut River. He said salmon had been "scarce for 15 to 20 years."

The good padre was behind the times even in 1819 so far as salmon were concerned. There hardly had been a salmon in that once great salmon stream since 1798 when the Upper Locks and Canal Company erected a 16-foot-high dam at Millers River in Massachusetts, 100 miles north that must leave Europeans aghast. For in Europe where civilization outdates ours by centuries, Atlantic salmon still run in many major rivers.

Let's have a quick look at a misconception many people have most of our vitamins are obtained

Andover Junior Bound For Philippine Home

MISS KATHLEEN MULLER

Kathleen Muller, an Andover High School junior, is boning up on Tagalog in the hope that she can at least be equipped to talk about the weather when she moves in this summer with a family in the Philippines.

Miss Muller has only known for a week that she will represent the American Field Service in Lucena City from June to September but she is already prepared with enough facts about her summer homeland to deliver a fact-cramped travelogue.

This, she says, is because AFS is bombarding her with bulky brown envelopes crammed with information they expect to be useful.

Kathy is one of two AFS applicants to clear the local chapter with an application, and the single one cleared by the national AFS office for immediate placement.

The Philippines isn't exactly what Kathy, an ardent student of French, had in mind, but she has switched her allegiance with vigor and is trying to add a little Spanish to her vocabulary along with the Tagalog that is native to the islands. This is more an act of international goodwill than a necessity for her Philippines "mother" teaches college English and is principal of an elementary school.

The Carlos Cavierto family lives in Lucena City, a college town with a population of 12,000 to 14,000. Under its roof are three teenage children and a niece and nephew. Mr. Cavierto is connected with military and teaches military statistics and history.

Miss Muller will leave Boston June 15 for San Francisco and fly out to Manila the next day. School will still be in session in the Philippines and Kathy is to be enrolled at the Maryknoll Academy for a schedule that will include Philippine history, math, Tagalog and maybe some French because Kathy would like to see how it is taught in another language.

AFS asked Miss Muller, as it does all applicants, what they feel qualifies them to represent their country abroad.

She offered as her first ranking qualification the fact that she comes from a long line of landmark fans. She has travelled with her parents and family to just about every historic landmark in Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts, as well as some points South.

This, she feels, will enable her to share more of what is the USA with her family abroad.

Miss Muller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Muller, 23 Bartlet St.

Four Elected As Teachers

Four teachers were appointed by the School Committee Tuesday and permission to hire another four given Supt. Edward I. Erickson.

Elected were: Mrs. Hester Ames of Tyngsboro who will teach grade five at Sanborn School. Mrs. Ames is a graduate of Plymouth Teachers College and will receive her masters degree in June. She has had public school experience.

Mrs. Dorothy Simpson, Nashua, a graduate of Keene Teachers College, will teach second grade at West School. She has New Hampshire and Florida teaching experience, and is currently doing graduate work at the University of New Hampshire.

The third teacher elected was Marion Fahey of Andover, graduate of Framingham Teachers College with Boston and Brookline teaching experience.

Mrs. Elizabeth Romeo of Andover was the fourth elected. She will teach kindergarten at Sanborn School part-time. A Columbia University graduate, Mrs. Romeo has taught in both public and private schools. For the last few years she has worked with kindergartens and nurseries in the area and is now at West Parish Nursery.

Flashing Light Found Confusing

An hour too soon for lunch, a General Baking Co. bread truck spread its wares on Main St. Tuesday after abrupt contact with an idle car.

Hilda J. Johnston, 180 Jenkins Rd., noted the flashing red light at Chestnut and Main, set to compensate for the fact that the signals have not been properly timed for some weeks.

She was already 22 ft. into the intersection when she made her full-stop, however, which led to damage of both fenders, the bumper and truck of her car. The truck, driven by Craig S. Rand, 122 Taft St., was undamaged but bread losses were heavy.

Two hundred and ninety-eight people staff our thirty-three Anton outlets. They have made cleanliness their way of business life — and they stand ready, willing and most able to prove that they have your best interests at heart. Your clothes come back to you as sanitary, as clean and as spotless, as modern dry cleaning can make them.

If you haven't yet experienced Anton service, we ask you to watch how you're treated from the moment you open the door of an Anton's store or your own door for our route salesman. Notice the smile on our sales person's face as he, or she, greets you. See how we keep our promises on delivery. We ask you to examine your clothes when they're finished.
